DETAILED ACTION

1. This action is responsive to the paper(s) filed 4/7/05.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

2. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

3. Claim 19 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

- Claim 19, it is unclear what structure in this system claim provides the functionality claimed. It appears to be merely intended use.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claims 11-27 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Holman (US5287181) in view of Lemon et al (US4674041).

Regarding claim 11, Holman teaches a system and methods for broadcasting coupon information to users along with programming or commercial messages [abstract, 6:5-23]. A message is displayed to the user informing him of the existence of a coupon related to the program/commercial being viewed. When the user is interested, he may request that the coupon be stored locally for later redemption.

Holman does not appear to teach the concept of tracking the number of issued coupons. Lemon et al teaches an electronic coupon kiosk where users are informed of the existence of certain coupons and they may request that certain coupons of interest to the user be downloaded locally for later redemption. Lemon et al also teaches that manufacturers may specify limits regarding the number of coupons to be issued and the system enforces such limits [col 1 lines 55 to col 2 lines 20, col 3 lines 39-57, col 26 lines 37-51]. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill at the time of the invention to have informed a service center for tracking and managing the number of requested/issued coupons of Holman so that the manufacturer's limits can be enforced. The system would continue to broadcast availability of a coupon until the system is notified that the manufacturer's limit has been reached. In effect, the number of times for broadcasting a message/commercial containing that coupon can be interpreted as being determined to be zero when the requested/issued coupon limit has been reached. Lemon et al also teaches a limit on the number of coupons redeemed [col 1 lines 61-62]. Holman also teaches that redemption histories be reported from the redeeming retailer to the manufacturer for intelligently making adjustments to its marketing campaigns [4:27-30, 18:59 to 19:5]. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill at the time of the invention to have reported such redemption usage to the system in order to enforce such a redemption limit on the proposed system of Holman in order to satisfy the manufacturer's desires. Regarding claims 21, 24, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill at the time of the invention for a manufacturer to have increased its coupon issuance and/or redemption limits when a particular campaign is showing signs of strong, steady and legitimate coupon issuance/redemption so that a popular/profitable campaign can be extended. The suggestion that a manufacturer can make changes to its marketing efforts based upon redemption data [19:1-5] provides motivation for such a feature.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
